PREFACE

This report is the second of its kind on Earnings and Hours Worked for St. Lucia. The present demands for wages statistics by Investors, Researchers and the like have incited the need for such a Report (Survey). The main objectives of such a report are to provide data that can be used in collective bargaining, minimum wage fixing and economic and employment policy formulation and monitoring. The data could also be used for wage fixing, investment decisions, as economic indicators, vocational guidance and for assessing standards of living.

The Government Statistics Department acknowledges the co-operation received from the numerous enterprises, organizations and other agencies in supplying the required data.

Director, Statistics Department

NOTE

The data contained in this report is an average of the number of cases reported by the Survey of Employment, Earnings and Hours of Work, and may therefore depend on the extent to which the earnings and wages of the employees within the respective occupations (titles) vary. In industry or occupation classes where the cases reported are not as diverse as or characteristic of the population, average earnings may differ considerably from the true population estimates of average earnings for that particular class. A more accurate estimate of earnings and hours of work is obtained where the number of cases reported is representative of what exist in the population.

Introduction

One of the major gaps in the labour statistics systems in many of the Caribbean countries, results from the lack of information on wages and hour of work. A few countries collect data through surveys of establishments, in which poor response tends to lead to unreliable statistics. Others routinely assemble information on wage agreements arrived at through the collective bargaining processes. Neither of these approached results in data with broad coverage, in terms of both economic activities and workers.

The effect of the gap in the statistics has been felt for many years, for example when analysing the evolution of Caribbean labour markets, and within the context of poverty monitoring, when evaluating changes in living standards and conditions of work and life. More recently, with intensified global competition, the absence of complete and reliable information on wages, labour cost and hours of work has been recognised as constituting a serious handicap, since, without this information, it is difficult to assess the competitive position of enterprises and countries.

As part of this contribution to the development of relevant and sustainable labour market policies in the Caribbean, the ILO Caribbean Multidisciplinary Team (CAMAT) has been assisting countries in strengthening their database for informed decision-making, by means of the Caribbean Labour Market Information System (CLMIS) project. To date, much of this effort has been focused on the establishment or improvement of an Occupational Wages Survey (OWS), as well as a Labour Force Survey. Recognizing the dearth of information on wages and hours of work and the increased demand for such data, the Saint Lucia Government Statistics Department has avail itself of the technical assistance provided under the ILO CLMIS project.

It is against this background that the Saint Lucia Government Statistics Department undertook the task of implementing and enhancing its Occupational Wages Survey.

Concept and Definitions

The following concepts and definitions were adopted for the survey:

- (a) Reference Week - The reference week is the last recent pay week.
- (b) Occupation - An occupation covers a set of jobs whose main task and duties are characterized by a high degree of similarity. Jobs are defined as a set of task and duties executed or meant to be executed by one person.
- (c) Employees – Employees include all persons, employed on a full time or part time basis, who are drawing pay for work done or services rendered. Persons who were absent from work on paid leave (e.g. sick leave, vacation leave) during the specified reference period are included. The following are however, excluded: -
 - (1) Working owners or partners in unincorporated companies whether or not they receive salaries.
 - (2) Former employees on pension, self-employed persons hired on a fee-for-service basis.
- (d) Wage earners – Wage earners maybe called manual workers, operatives, factory workers, production and related workers, piece workers etc. Wage earners are non-supervisory staffs up to the level of working-foreman who are engaged in the production process, in construction, installation and maintenance operations; warehouse and delivery staff, security staff and official maids. Wage earners may be divided into time-rated and piece-rated wage earners. Time-rated wage earners are those employees whose pay is expressed in terms of a set number of hours, i.e. hourly, daily, weekly, and fortnightly or any other time unit. Piece-rated wage earners are those workers whose remuneration is based on their output.

- (e) Salaried Employees - Comprise all other employees, i.e. administrative, managing directors, working directors of incorporated business, executives, commission agents and travelling salesmen directly responsible to management, professional and technical staff, supervisory workers above the level of working-foremen, administrative and clerical workers and similar office staff.
- (f) Gross wages of wage earners – Payment to a worker by his employer made regularly (usually at daily, weekly, fortnightly etc.), including where relevant, payments in cash, amounts earned by piece-workers, supplementary earnings under incentive plans, cost-of-living allowances and regular bonuses. These payments are mostly directly related to work performed, but remuneration for time not worked (including paid annual vacations, public holidays, etc.) is also considered as part of wages. Payments for overtime are excluded from the gross wages of wage earners.
- (g) Gross [Pay] earnings of salaried employees – Includes basic salaries, regular commission, incentive pay, bonus and cost-of-living allowance. Exclude compensation in kind, travelling expenses, retirement gratuities and bonuses paid at irregular intervals (e.g. Christmas bonus). Also include the salaries of working directors of companies, but exclude the earnings of working proprietors.
- (h) Normal Hours (of work) – Normal hours of work are the hours of work fixed by or in pursuance of laws and regulations, collective agreements or arbitral awards. Where not fixed or in the pursuance of laws and regulations, collective or arbitral awards, normal hours of work should be taken as meaning the number of hours per day or week in excess of which any time worked is remunerated at overtime rates or forms an exception to the rules or customs of the establishment relating to the classes of workers concerned. Normal hours paid for include normal hours spent on vacation, sick leave, holiday and other forms of leave with pay.

- (i) Overtime Hours – They represent the hours worked in excess of normal hours of work and for which payments are usually made, at higher rates than normal rates.
- (j) Vacancies – Vacancies exist when (a) the employer/establishment has made a effort during the last 4 weeks to find one or more persons to provide labour services for (at least) a specified minimum amount of time within the reference period; and (b) the employer would have engaged one or more suitable candidates to work during this reference period if they had been available, and would not have fired anyone as a consequence. Vacancies also exist if only (b) is satisfied and the employer is in the process of selecting someone among possibly suitable candidates or is waiting for such a candidate to accept a job offer or to start working.

Classification

The Classification for Economic Activity and Occupation Title was done according to the United Nations International Standard Industrial Classification of all Economic Activities (ISIC) and the ILO International Standard Classification of Occupation (ISCO).

N.B The data contained in this table is an average of the number of cases reported by the 'Yearly Survey of Employment, Earnings and Hours of Work' and may therefore depend on the extent to which the earnings and wages of the employees within the respective occupations (titles) vary. In industry or occupation classes, where the cases reported are not as diverse as or characteristic of the population, average earnings may differ considerably from the true population estimate of earnings for that particular class. A more accurate estimate of earnings and hours of work is obtained where the number of cases reported are representative of what exist in the population

N.B The data contained in this table is an average of the number of cases reported by the 'Yearly Survey of Employment, Earnings and Hours of Work' and may therefore depend on the extent to which the earnings and wages of the employees within the respective occupations (titles) vary. In industry or occupation classes, where the cases reported are not as diverse as or characteristic of the population, average earnings may differ considerably from the true population estimate of earnings for that particular class. A more accurate estimate of earnings and hours of work is obtained where the number of cases reported are representative of what exist in the population

N.B The data contained in this table is an average of the number of cases reported by the 'Yearly Survey of Employment, Earnings and Hours of Work' and may therefore depend on the extent to which the earnings and wages of the employees within the respective occupations (titles) vary. In industry or occupation classes, where the cases reported are not as diverse as or characteristic of the population, average earnings may differ considerably from the true population estimate of earnings for that particular class. A more accurate estimate of earnings and hours of work is obtained where the number of cases reported are representative of what exist in the population

N.B The data contained in this table is an average of the number of cases reported by the 'Yearly Survey of Employment, Earnings and Hours of Work' and may therefore depend on the extent to which the earnings and wages of the employees within the respective occupations (titles) vary. In industry or occupation classes, where the cases reported are not as diverse as or characteristic of the population, average earnings may differ considerably from the true population estimate of earnings for that particular class. A more accurate estimate of earnings and hours of work is obtained where the number of cases reported are representative of what exist in the population

N.B The data contained in this table is an average of the number of cases reported by the 'Yearly Survey of Employment, Earnings and Hours of Work' and may therefore depend on the extent to which the earnings and wages of the employees within the respective occupations (titles) vary. In industry or occupation classes, where the cases reported are not as diverse as or characteristic of the population, average earnings may differ considerably from the true population estimate of earnings for that particular class. A more accurate estimate of earnings and hours of work is obtained where the number of cases reported are representative of what exist in the population
